A MINGLING OF FACES

Then . . .

. . . And Now.

Guess what time of year it is again boys and girls! Anyone? Anyone? For those of you who are still confused, it is our favourite time of the year. It is the beginning of another fun-filled, action-packed year at North Lambton Secondary School! However, we have a surprise for you this year - something that will obviously make your day. Approximately one hundred years ago our school opened its doors for the first time. Now is that not something worth celebrating?

Over the years our school has changed. It has expanded in size and quality. And as the years have improved NLSS, we as students have improved also. (Are we not impressive?) In the next few pages we hope to show you a bit of how our school appeared before we all arrived, and to teach you about our school's history. And hey, by the way, welcome back!

CHANGES

Ask any senior student, after four or five years of North Lambton, with the same ritualistic schedules, seeing the same faces and same places day, after day, after day, we gradually tire of the monotonous daily events of school. Putting aside our hardships as students, have you ever considered how our school feels, having hundreds of noisy students trampling through her halls on a daily basis, for the last one hundred years?

Boring, you say? Why never! North Lambton has been a beehive of activity over the last one hundred years. She has lived through fascinating events you and I can only read about in Mr. Sturdy's history textbooks. She witnessed the changing of the times; radical fashion statements, the feminist movement, two World Wars! But aside from the changes she has witnessed firsthand, North Lambton has also evolved. As students, we are concerned only with ourselves, and fail to see the history our school contains. To give us all a refresher course on our school's history, here is a condensed version of the history of NLSS.

1890 - Forest District High School opened it's doors for the first time in the latter months of 1890. Our first principal was Mr. Philp. Aside from the principal, the staff consisted of two assistant teachers. The student population hovered just under a hundred. There were no buses. Students walked, drove a horse and buggy, took the train, or boarded in town. Students living in Camlachie caught the train at 6:40 am and returned home at 6:20 pm. Thedford students arrived at school at 10:00 am and returned home at 5:40 pm.

Aug. 18, 1917 - William Jonathan Wright, principal from 1909 to 1913, was killed in action at Lens.

1927 - The teaching staff increased to five.

1930's - The staff and student populations expanded. Six classes, a science lab, a boys shop, a home economics room, and a gym were added.

Feb. 26, 1940 - A fire, believed to have started in the boiler room, destroyed the entire school. The student population of one hundred and sixty held classes elsewhere in town until the school was rebuilt.

WWII - Many students and teachers joined the armed forces. After 1945 - School buses were introduced.

1950 - The teaching staff was increased to nine. As one grade nine class was forced to be held in the gym, an addition was planned.

1950-51 - Students remained in classrooms while teachers moved from room to room.

Since 1950 - Since 1950 three additions have occurred. During the first addition two classes were added, two science labs, and another gym. The old gym became the cafetorium. Two more classrooms and a library were added in the second addition. In 1965 three shop rooms were added, a drafting room, a given occupations room, two science labs, one classroom, and a medical lab.

1968 - The population of Forest District High School had swelled to seven hundred people. Due to the large population, portables were added.

1960's - During the 60's the name of our school changed to North Lambton Secondary School.

1971 - Further addition was added.

1972 - In the spring of 1972 a new cafeteria, two science rooms, two classrooms, the pod, and the office and guidance rooms were added. Also, to further confuse us, the old gym was turned into the library.

WHAT IS "AUREA VINCULA"?

FLASH
BACK

SHAKESPEARE AND ME

I wouldn't mind English - it isn't so bad,
If it wasn't for Shakespeare - he's driving me mad.
The language we speak doesn't seem quite the same;
To the least understanding I cannot lay claim.
Four plays we have studies with zest;
The first one was "Caesar" - I liked it the best.
The next was "The Tempest". That story was queer,
For I have scorned fairies for many a year.
"Romeo and Juliet", a heart breaking tale,
After each test always left me quite pale.
Hamlet's adventures are now in the past,
But I'm sorry to say that he won't be the last.
Next year we must suffer another old play, -
Which leaves me with only one more thing to say,
That I'll try to promote that small letter "D",
The cause of this feud between Shakespeare and me.

- Jean James

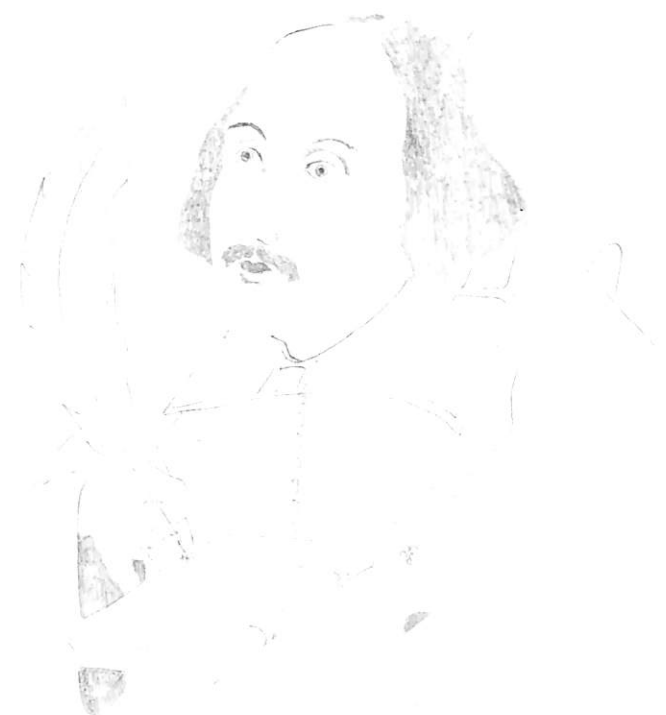

For many years, on many yearbook covers, the same words have passed by people's eyes - AUREA VINCULA. For as many years, on as many students' minds lay the question - What the heck is AUREA VINCULA? Whether this question surfaced to their lips or not remains known only to the persons afraid of being thought of as stupid for asking. Well, no one has to whisper behind open palms anymore, for here is the answer to that long wondered question.

Chances are that the first step in solving the mystery of North Lambton lies in pronunciation. AUREA VINCULA sounds like it should be spelled, Or-e-ah Wink-u-la. In translation from Latin, it means "golden links".

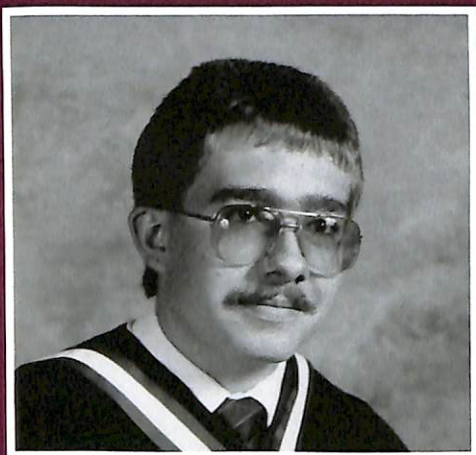

These golden links are the ties between you and your school, you and your teachers, and you and your friends.

Friends and teachers are what make a high school or break a high school. The relationships formed are hopefully as strong as the ones symbolized by the "golden links", and the North Lambton yearbook serves as a reminder of the memories made. MAY THE LINKS NEVER BREAK NOR BE FORGOTTEN!

While searching through old yearbooks, we came across this poem. We have decided to reprint "Shakespeare and Me" because we felt it represents a link to the past, something we share with past students.

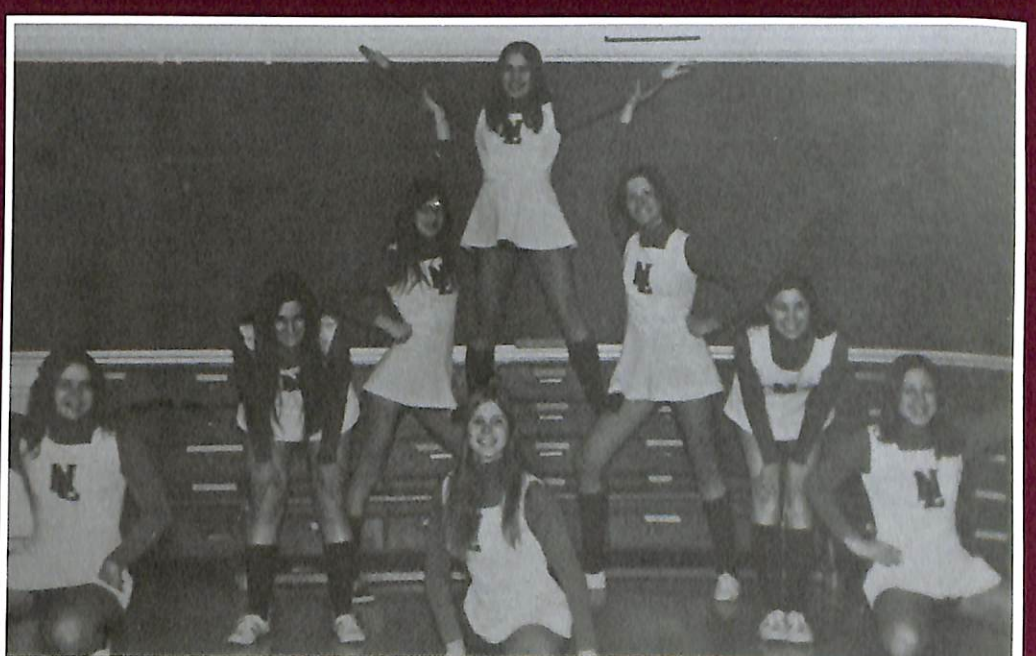

HISTORY PAST AND PRESENT

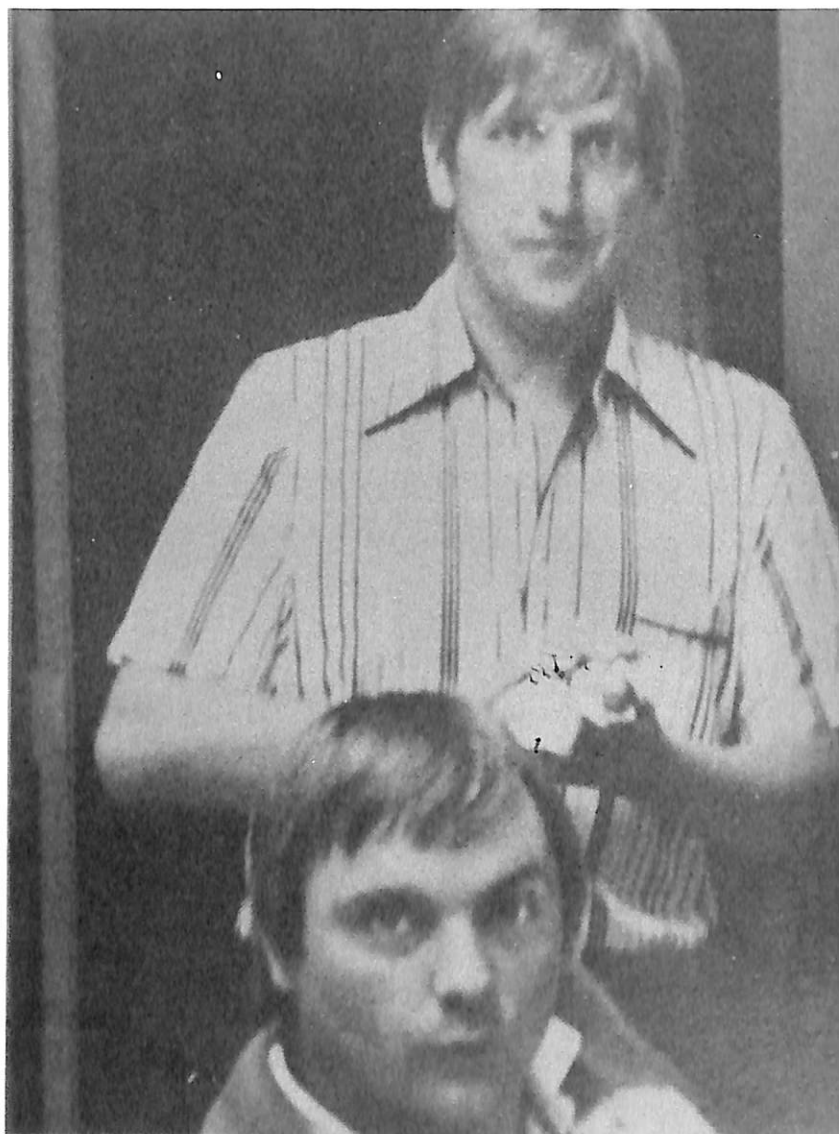

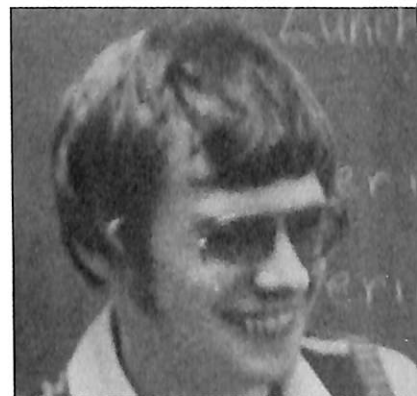

Quite often when we hear the word centennial, our brains instantly conjure up images of very stiff and proper people wearing archaic clothing, their faces void of even a fraction of a smile. In our search to discover our history, let us not overlook the faces that have graced North Lambton's halls in recent years. While North Lambton's first students helped establish our school, recent students have been very important in the ever-changing and ever-growing atmosphere of North Lambton.

TIME FLIES WHEN YOU'RE
HAVING FUN . . . DOESN'T IT?

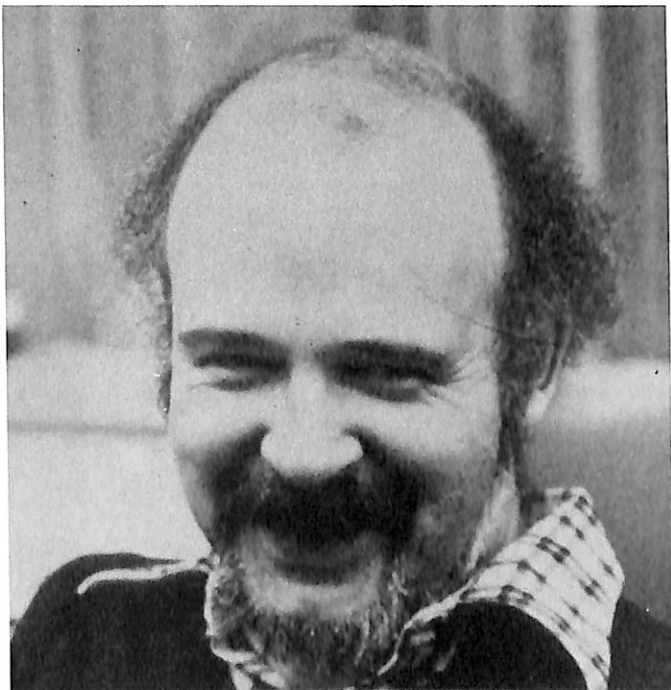

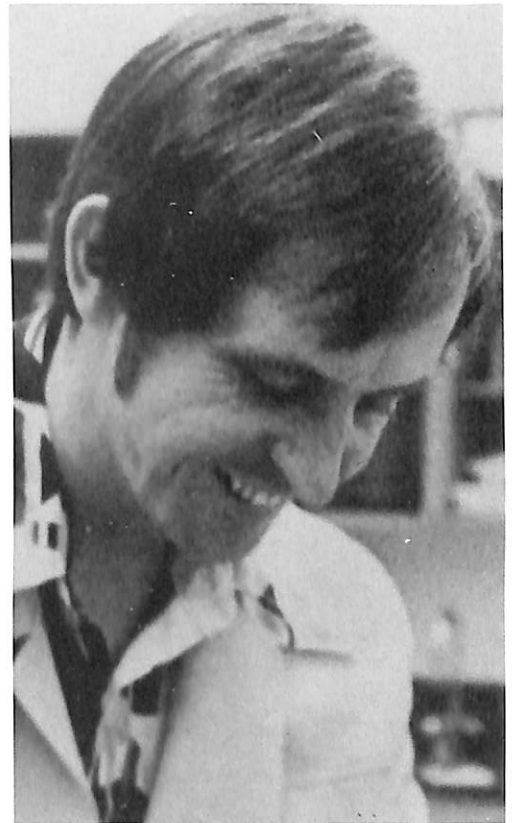

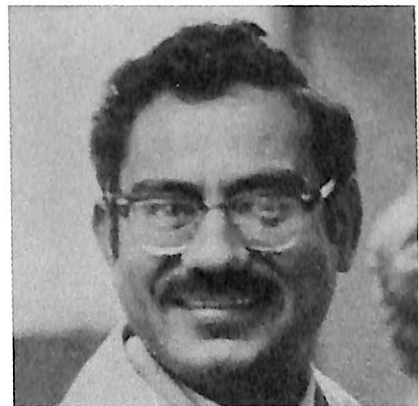

In a time long, long ago, in a galaxy far, far away . . . okay, so it wasn't a far off galaxy, but the time was quite awhile ago. Back when "groovy" was in, and "shakin' your booty" was the thing to do, this is how some of your favourite teachers looked.

It's amazing how fashions, sayings and friends change through the years. And as they changed, our teachers were there, sitting at the top of the trendsetting heap.

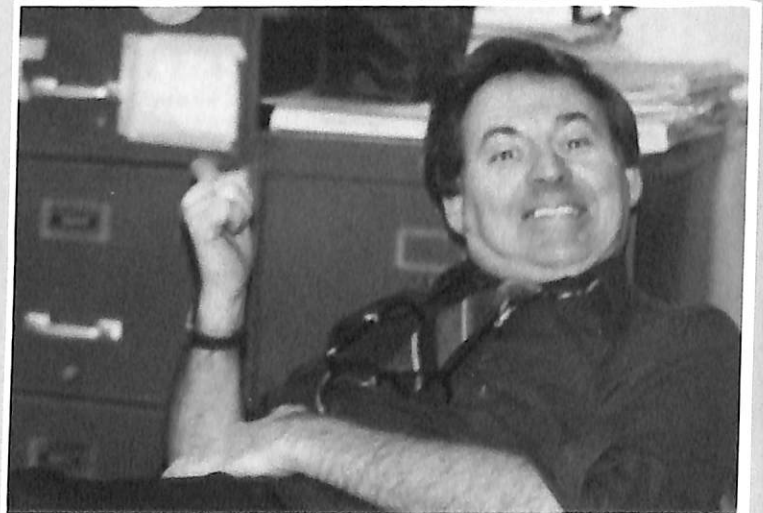

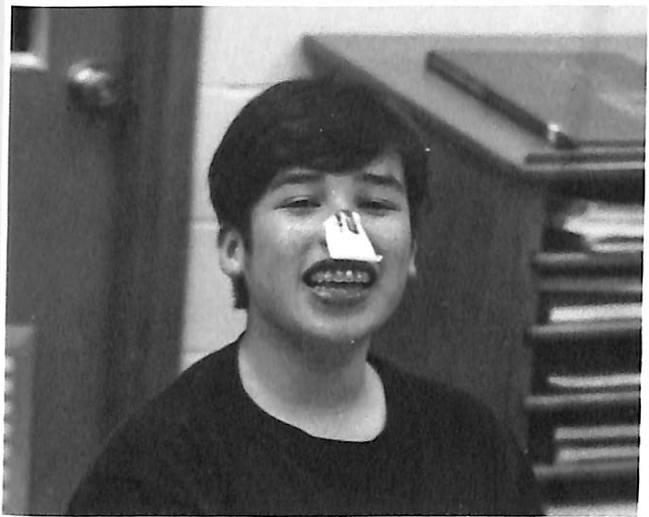

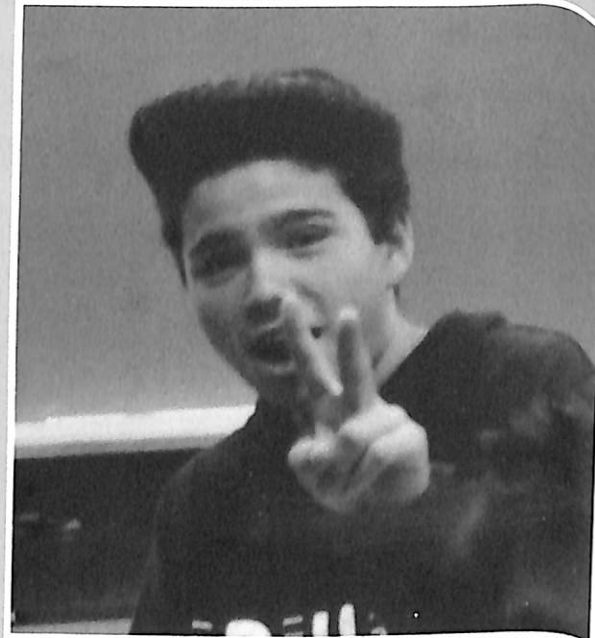

This reflection on yester-year serves as part of the history section. But, you know, after taking another gander at these "blasts from the past", one has to wonder if perhaps that galaxy isn't just a little farther away than what was first calculated!

(Joking!)

JUST ANOTHER DAY . . .

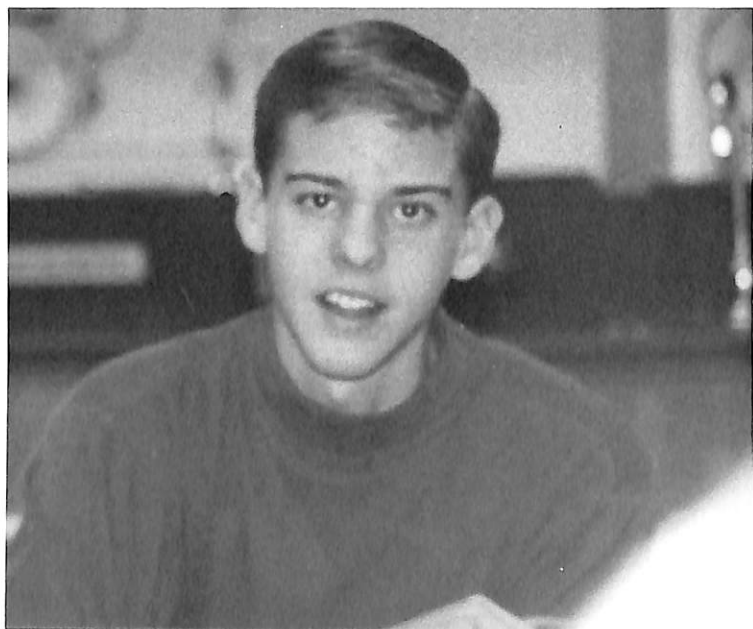

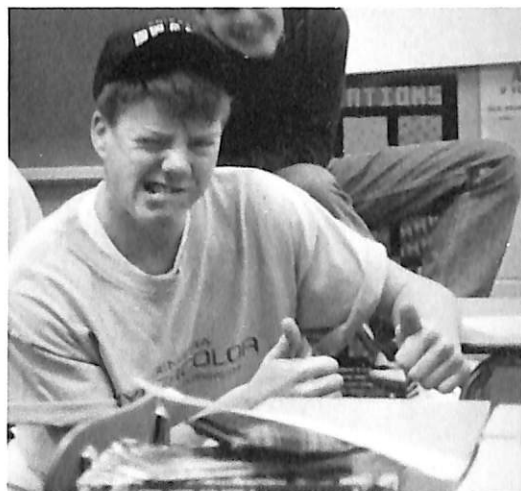

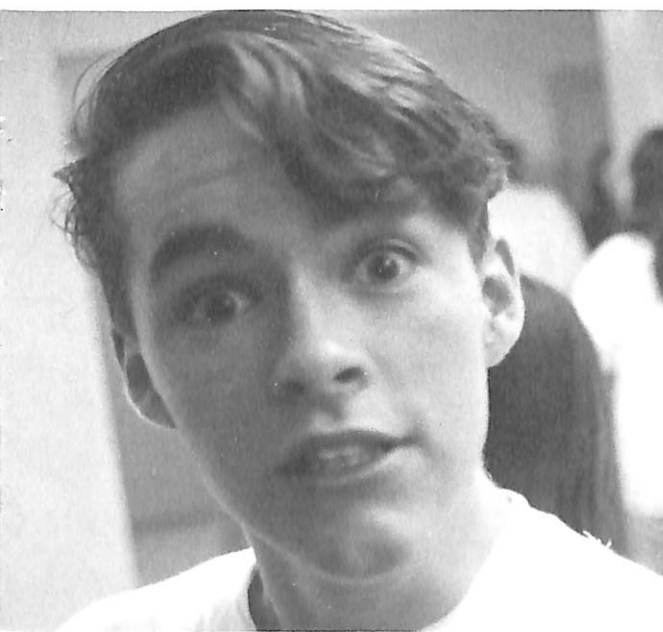

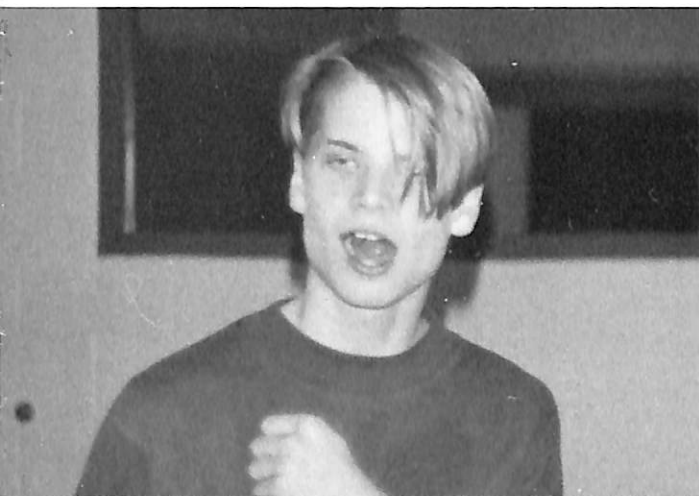

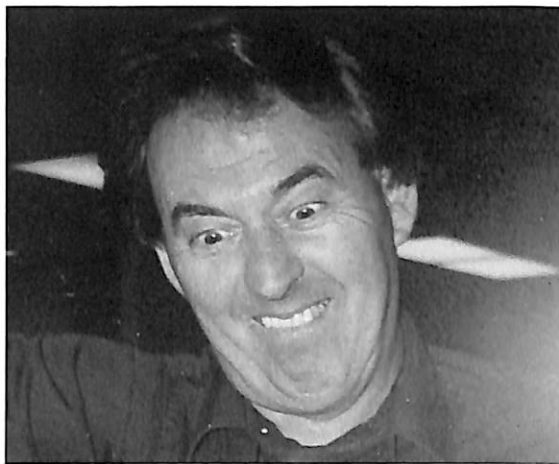

What is there to say
About just another day?
Friends are at play . . .
For peace we all pray . . .
And for the warm sun of May . . .
Life is okay . . .
This poem is gay,
Wouldn't you say?
Let's just drop it!

(Does this sound like a Dr. Seuss rhyme to you, too?)

In all seriousness people, what is there to say about your average day at school? Friends hang out, goof around and try to pass the time till the bell rings to go home. Who can blame us?

NO WAY!

EEEEK!

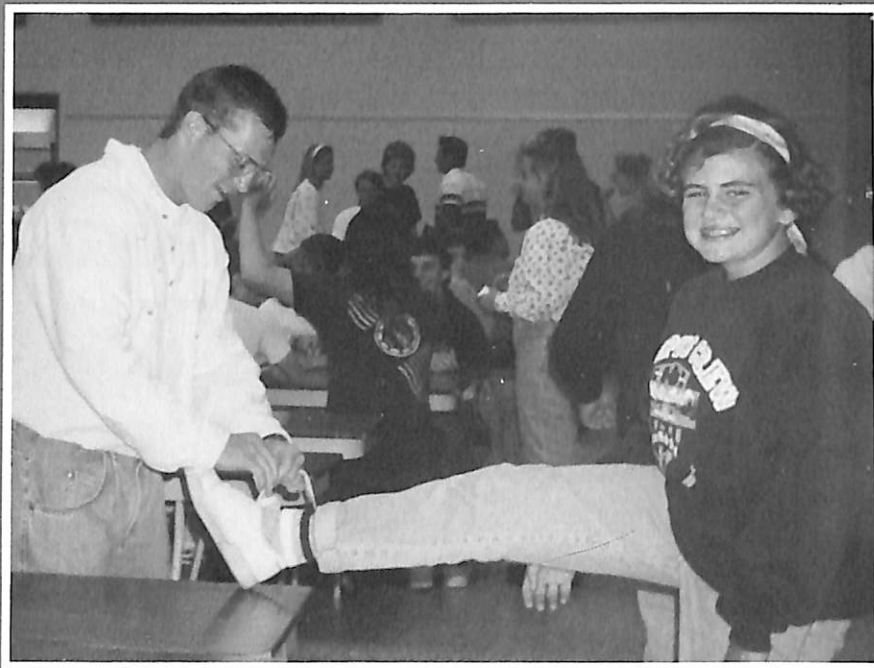

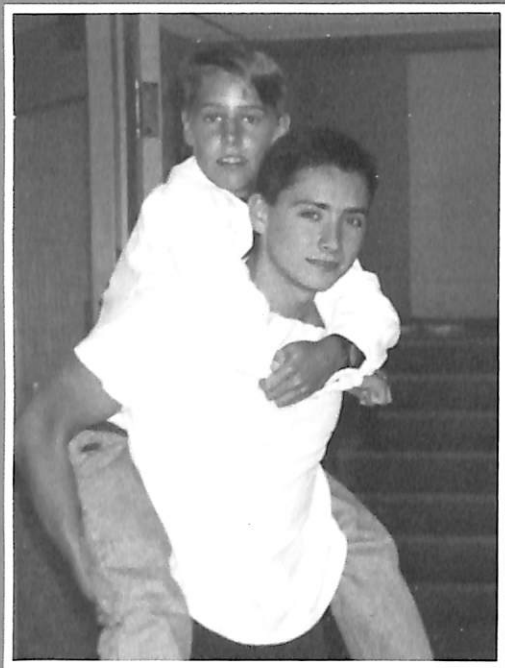

It might be the ultimate embarrassment to have these pictures here for the whole school to see, but why do these people look this way? Maybe Mr. Harrington just handed out a six page essay on Norman Bethune(?) Mr. Proctor just assigned "The Mating Habits of the Juniper Fly" - 30% of the term mark, of course. Most likely some irritating person came up with a camera and gave them two seconds to perfect their best smile. (Not!)

In any case, there should be two major feelings about these:

- 1) Kill yourself laughing at the expense of the poor unfortunates pictured here.
- 2) Get out the scotch tape and delete pg's twelve and thirteen, and lay low for awhile.

Track & Field

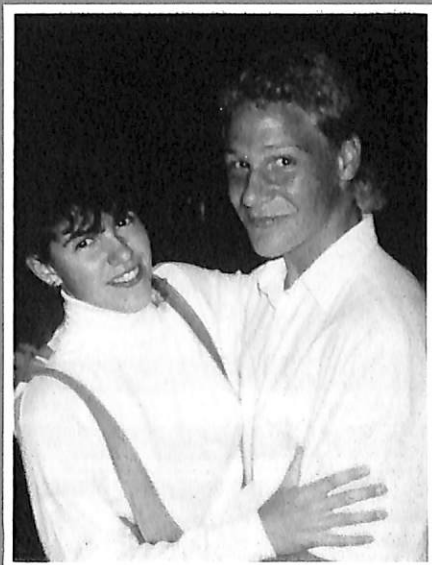

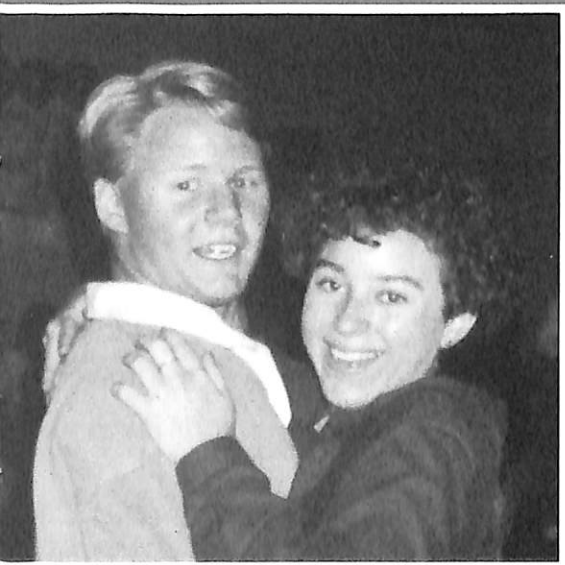

Back To School Bash

With a very enthusiastic, and very large host of grade nines invading the halls of NLSS this year, it's no wonder that the back to school activities were such a huge success.

Seniors lowered themselves to slave status, catering to their masters' every whim. Along with track and field and orientation, topping off the start of school, the Back to School Bash was an excellent opportunity for first year students to discover first hand just what true North Lambton students do best . . . PARTY! Special congratulations are extended to Shawn Lester and Julie Lester, this year's frosh prince and princess.

Principal's Message

Congratulations to the yearbook staff on a job well done.

This yearbook will be fun to look at today, and will be even more fun, years from now, when you look back on it's pages.

The year at NLSS has been most active and rewarding. You really got involved in sports, music, noon hour activities, and who will ever forget writing thousands of cards in the fall?

To those of you leaving, good luck and best wishes. For those returning, continue your efforts in our active, spirited school.

President's Message

Lisa Lester

SAC President 1991-1992

What a great year! The year's success is all thanks to the eager students and caring teachers here at NLSS. Your hard work is recognized and greatly appreciated.

My position as SAC president has been a great learning experience this year and I had the joy of working with a great council. I can look back and remember this year with a lot of great memories: a feeling that I hope every North Lambton student has also.

North Lambton is special in the way that it is close like a family. Since the population at NLSS is much smaller than most schools, we have the opportunity to meet many of our fellow students and most of our friendly teachers. This advantage helps give our school a positive atmosphere and also makes learning fun.

North Lambton is a great high school to grow in and learn from.

For some of us it has been a new beginning in our lives to attend NLSS this year - Watchout! It will be time to leave before you know it. For those of you that will be coming back this year, try your best and let NLSS help you work for something you believe in. With all that NLSS has to offer, this shouldn't be difficult. For those students who will be leaving and going on to bigger and better things, follow your dreams and pursue them with courage. Remember - possibilities and miracles mean the same thing.

Life is a series of beginnings . . . that bring us closer to the realization of our dreams.

May all of your beginnings be showered by sunbeams and all of your dreams sense the warmth of success.

SOME OF NORTH
LAMBTON'S SENIOR
STUDENTS. ENJOY!

*Sandra Smudge was an odd little lass
She had an obsession with eating green glass
She had it for breakfast, and dinner, and lunch
And all she would do was munch, munch, munch*

*Then one day, her mother said, "Whoa!"
'Your glass-eating ways have to go.'
Little Sandra was sad, but she said with a sigh,
'I'll give up the glass, I'll give it a try.'*

*She thought day and night of something to eat
She'd wake-up at night, wanting a treat
Then one day she heard from a friend of a friend
That plastic was going to be the new trend*

*It was safer to pack in, and softer to chew
Plus, she like the new colour, the new colour was blue.
She rushed out to try some, and to her surprise
It tasted much better than gravy on fries*

*Her mother approved of Sandra's new find
But said, 'Plastic's not quite what I had in mind.'
Sandra didn't care, she just gave a shrug
And took a big bite of her blue plastic jug.
But as time wore on, Sandra grew out of her phase
And ate normal food for the rest of her days.*

CHILDHOOD FANTASY

*I thought I could fly,
But the earth pulled me back.*

*I longed to soar high,
Where the stars meet the sky.
But my thought had to die,
It is wings that I lack.*

But the earth pulled me back.*

WHAT COULD HAVE BEEN

Sometimes it's hard to say what I mean
And now I'm aware of what could have been

We were special friends for quite awhile,
You always know how to make me smile.

The times that we shared and the dreams for tomorrow
Slowly left us with empty feelings of sorrow.

We ignored our emotions and didn't say much,
And now I sit alone remembering your touch.

If only the words had come to my mind
What's gone would be here and love I could find.

Lisa Lester

ONE DARK SHADOW

I dress in black
a lot these days.
It could be that I relate the colour to the state that the world is in;
to signify my mourning.
No, I just like black.
It is the absence of all colour,
and all colour combined,
into one, dark, shadow.
Black is good.
The night is black.
I like walking at night,
for I am alone then.
Alone with the glistening
pavement, and the wind.
Together, we become one, dark, shadow.
I think that if I had to choose,
I would probably choose the day.
But I like the night more,
because it is black.
One, dark, shadow.
I like black.

DINNER THEATRE

Dinner theatre this year was presented by Mrs. Morrison's Grade 11 Drama Class. "Gaslight Gaieties" took the audience back to the Gay Nineties (1890's that is), through a series of short skits with titles like "Freezing a Mother-in-Law" and "The Maniac". The Vocal Connection entertained between skits with songs from the era.

'Twas the Week Before Christmas

'Twas the week before Christmas, when all through the halls,
Not a student was seen; they were all at the malls.
But despite the bad weather and homework
galore,
North Lambton had many festivities in store.
"The Sounds of Christmas" rang joyously
through the gym,
As the music department performed yuletide hymns.
Decorations were hung in the cafeteria with care,
In hopes that Santa would visit the semi-formal held there.
Yes, "Rocking with Rudolph" was the theme for the night,
As student excitement reached an incredible height.
As to bolster our spirits throughout the last week
AA planned activities; kids were starting to freak.
Longing for the holidays was seen in each face,
But a few more events still remained to take place.
With bells on their toes, students ran through the streets,
The fun that was enjoyed could not be beat.
Finally, at last, students woke Friday morn,
The last day of classes finished up with a storm.
The Clampetts and the Malones battled to the death,
While Family Feud was watched with baited breath.
Next was the teachers' skit; a hilarious affair,
But in the spirit of Christmas, no one had a care.
And the finale before everyone rushed away,
Was an afternoon dance to conclude the great day.
Truly, our school celebrates with impeccable style,
Too bad our festivities are gone for awhile.

MY NUMBER ONE FOR MUSIC AND FUN . . .

"My number one for music and fun is B 96.9 and Dominos." Ten bucks says that 99% of the population of North Lambton knows this phrase by heart, and no matter how hard we might try to forget it, it will be imprinted in our brains forever! The school spirit concert sponsored by B 96.9 and Dominos was the hot topic of conversation in the halls of NLSS for the better part of a month. Even though some may protest and say that writing out a stupid sentence over and over again is not school spirit, we were all working together. Although NLSS did not win, we were darn close, winning a free dance for our efforts. On February 20, North Lambton and guests showed everyone how to party as we danced to the tunes of B 96.9 and munched on pizza graciously supplied by Whitey's.

FROM THE YEARBOOK . . .

. . . And so, another year at North Lambton is put behind us. Of course, the ending of this year means another mushy page from the yearbook staff about how wonderful it was doing the yearbook and how much fun we all had . . . blah . . . blah . . . blah . . . Not this year, boy! No, siree! We're gonna give it to you straight. Here is, then, THE NAKED TRUTH OF WHAT GOES ON BEHIND LOCKED YEARBOOK DOORS. For one thing, the yearbook is a lot of hard work. There's picture taking, picture cropping, layout drawing, copy writing, copy editing, copy fitting, proofreading, and much more to be done for just one page. The writing and layout drawing is difficult occasionally, to think of some idea to make the page interesting, but picture taking can be easy, as long as your subjects are willing to pose for you without giving you some suggestive hand gesture beforehand (and without calling you an obscenity while simultaneously offering to break your camera). Could this be a clue as to why some students never appear among the pages of the N.L.S.S. yearbook? Aside from the direct work, there's yearbook selling and deciding on a price that isn't too expensive for the average student, while trying to cover the cost of producing the yearbook. Oh, yeah, the cost of making the yearbook is $10,000, big money. To help cover the cost, we the yearbook staff, also spend a few of our weekends working bingos (wow . . . all this work and we don't even get a school credit!) Well, we guess you've heard enough complaining from us, because if we didn't like doing the yearbook, then we just wouldn't do it, right? Plus, there is some fun involved. So, while we're writing about the fun, we'd like to thank Mr. O'Donnell (our money mogul), Mr. Brown and Mrs. Lowe (staff advisors), Mr. Muir and Mr. Furtney (graphics experts), these people make it easier, and to the entire student body - You're our inspiration! (Oh, two words to the staff of the '93 yearbook - GOOD LUCK!)

Hola, Cóme Vamos!

For all those who didn't get to meet me, my name is Pol Grau. I'm from Barcelona, Spain. I attended NLSS last year and I had a great time, thanks to teachers and students. When I first came I was completely lost, but later on it turned out great. I didn't realize how lucky I was to spend a year in Canada until the time to leave approached. I'd like to thank all those that helped me through the year and made it unforgettable.

Hasta la vista!

On May 6, 7, and 8, the curtains rose, the lights came on, and the heralds announced the arrival of King Arthur's bride, Guenevere.

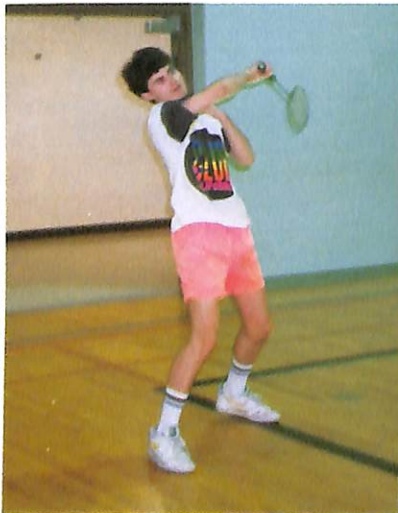

Guenevere, King Arthur, the comical King Pellinore, dashing Lancelot, and all the other cast and crew put on two matinee and three evening shows of Camelot, taking the crowd back to 500 AD to a time of knights in shining armour and magical enchantments.

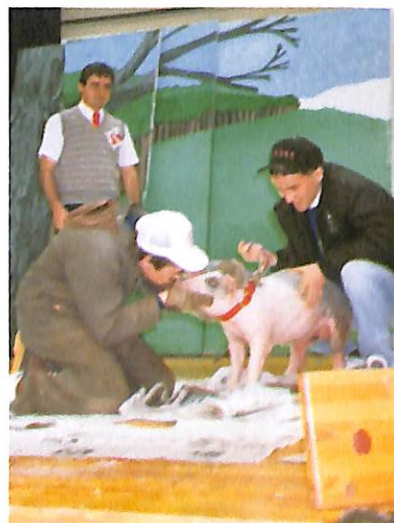

The Drama Department put a lot of work into the production, staying several nights a week to practice. Scott Prudom spent most of his days (didn't he have any classes?!!) running between the music room and the stage setting up the light and sound systems. Mrs. Morrison, the director, spent the last few weeks before showtime running on nervous energy. Mr. Williams directed the pit orchestra (nice T-shirts, guys!) To add a professional touch to an excellent musical!

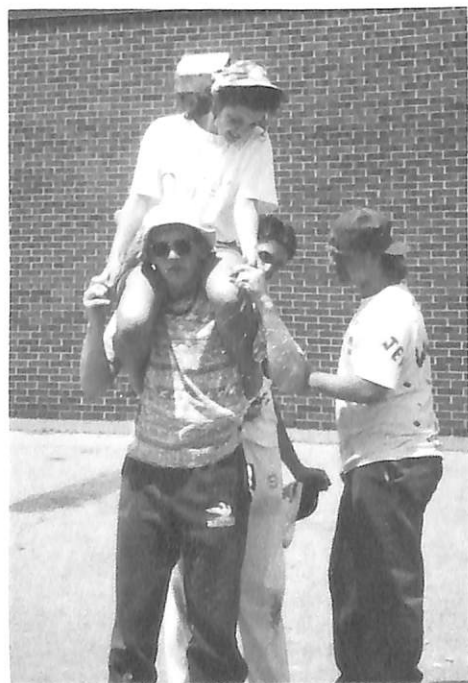

WHAT'S THE SCORE

Yearbook writers get tired of saying the same old thing year after year. You know, the speech that drones on about the merits of our great school, the wonderful students, the inspirational teachers, and of course, the success of our various clubs and athletic program. The trouble is, everything we say is true (well, at least it's only exaggerated slightly!) NLSS boasts a wide variety of clubs and teams, such as badminton, soccer, SAC, AA, band, wrestling, and curling to name but a few. It is the dedication of both students and staff which make our school's activities a large success and a lot of fun. If you're not involved, grab a friend and give one of North Lambton's many extra-curricular activities a try; there's something for everyone.

MOGA MADNESS '92

Moga '92 was a great success. Without the help of Heidi Britton, SAC, the 16 teams, Mr. Purves and the Custodians, it wouldn't have been possible. The nine events of Barnyard Moga were:

- 1) Peanut Pickup 2) Wheel Barrow Race
- 3) Watermelon Relay 4) Hen House
- 5) Scarecrow Relay 6) Tractor Relay
- 7) Milk the Cow 8) Shear the Sheep (cancelled 1/2 way through) 9) Hay Bale

The 3 teams that won were:

- 1) The Bulls capt. Mike Doornbosch
- 2) The Hairy Rabbits capt. Dan Burns
- 3) The Black Crows capt. Jeff Brush

The most laughs came from watching our dignified peers coming up with unique ways to finish the events.

SPRING OLYMPICS

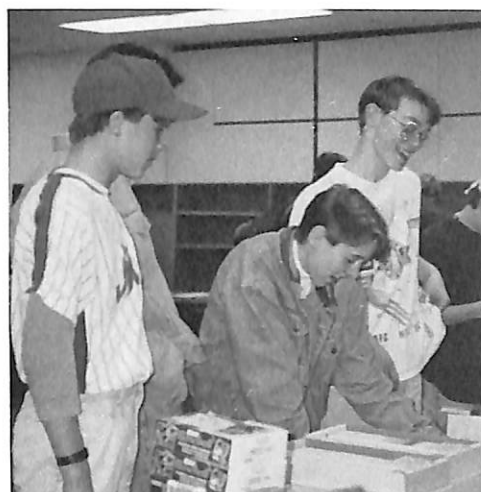

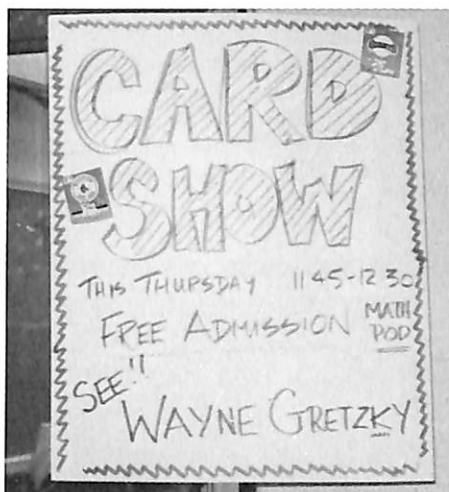

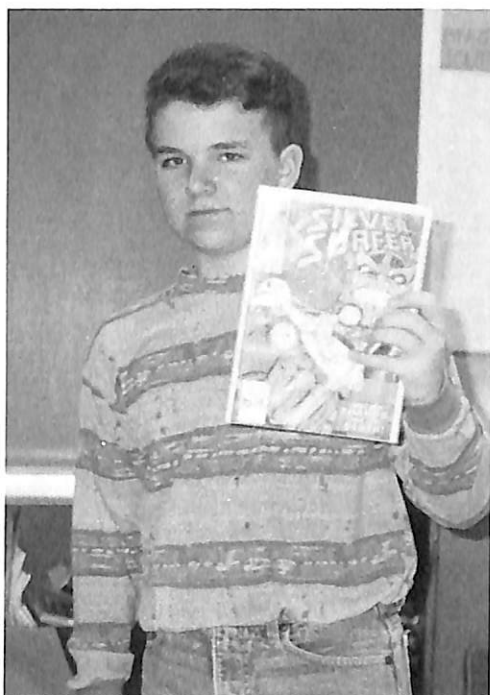

The 1992 Wacky Spring Olympics, hosted by the SAC, was a huge success. It was good clean fun, excluding the jello-eating contest of course! As you can see, some of our graduating students have finally "gotten a grip" on things in the tug 'o' war. It appears that a certain team was totally wrapped up in the excitement.

Congratulations to all teams!

The sports card club contains 20-25 members, some of which you see here at their very first card show. Mr. Richardson meets with them once a week to talk, exchange, and collect cards. They also watch videos about cards and card collectors. Mr. Richardson is quoted as saying, "They are just a bunch of good guys".

SKI TRIP

The Year: 1992
The Date: January 27th
The Place: Collingwood
The Sport: SKIING!

This year, fellow NLSS snow buffs and sports enthusiasts hit the slopes again to show off, eat or get together with friends. As you can tell by these pictures, more than just skiing went on. But from the expressions on most people's faces, it looks as though everyone enjoyed themselves.

PAIRS

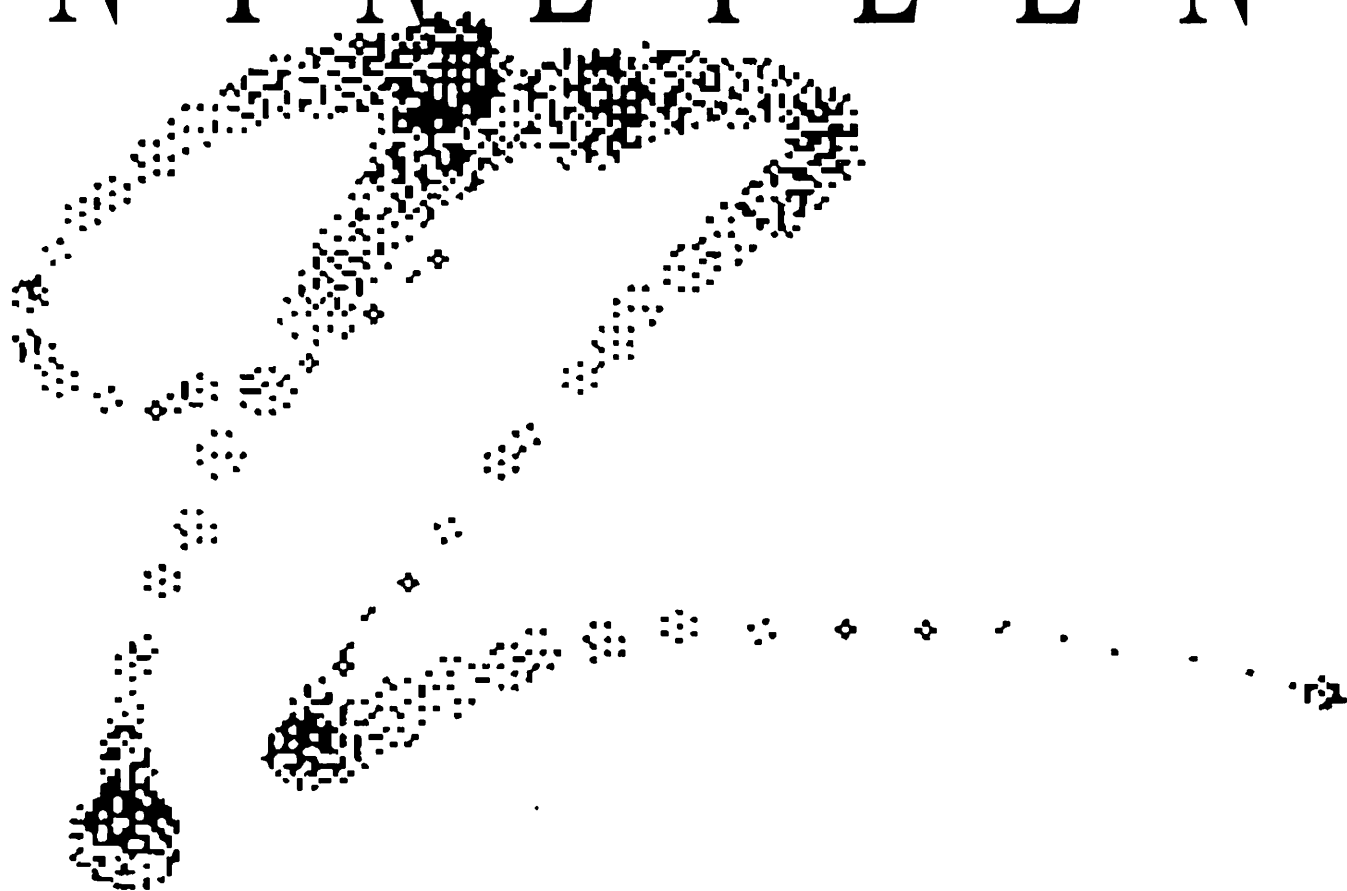

PAIRS is an acronym which stands for Partners Active in Resource Sharing: a program which consists of a partnership between Dupont Canada, NLSS, and the Forest BIA. Throughout the school year, these three organizations have combined their respective talents and resources to benefit one another. For example, Dupont generously donated a microscope and other scientific equipment to our school. Through funds donated to NLSS as a result of the PAIRS program, our school was able to enter a float in the Christmas Santa Claus parade. In addition, volleyball tournaments were hosted at North Lambton in April and October between enthusiastic teams of teachers, students, members of the BIA, and employees of Dupont.

However, perhaps the most significant PAIRS related event which occurred at NLSS this year was the Earth Day presentation which was held on Wednesday, April 22. Marianne Lines of Pollutech and Scott David of Dupont informed students about the problems associated with Zebra Mussels and their contamination of the Great Lakes, while tee shirts were awarded to the winners of the poster contest. Hopefully, the PAIRS program will continue to exist in our community for many years to come.

FACULTY

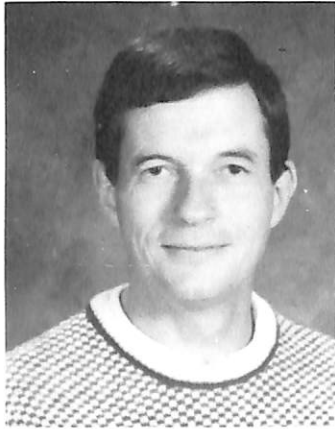

PENMANSHIP QUIZ

Every year the yearbook staff attempts to group the teaching staff in a brilliantly new and interesting way. And as every other year, quite a few lame and idiotic ideas enter our heads before we are able to narrow down our topic.

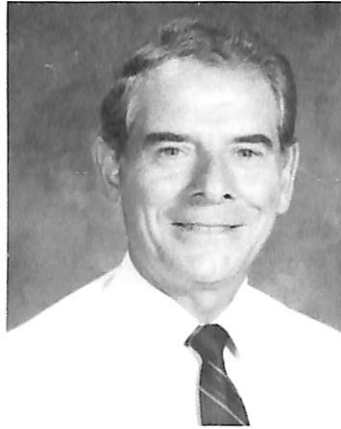

After much discussion and debating we have undertaken the task of analyzing North Lambton's teachers' handwriting. We have overcome many obstacles (ie. trying to decipher Mr. Brown's chicken scratching), and after hours of work we have come up with this, the finished product. Due to a lack of space, each teacher is grouped only under one characteristic of their writing. We hope you enjoy!

Big and Sloppy

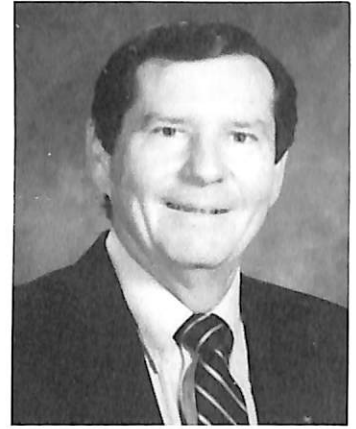

Mr. Brown

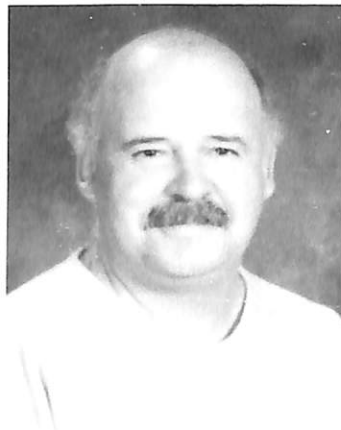

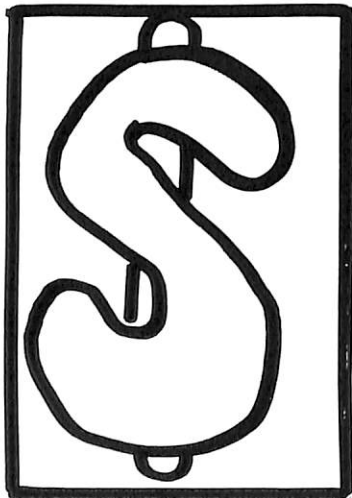

Mr. Creaner

Mr. Illman

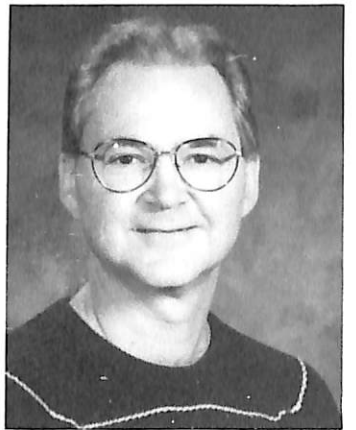

Mr. Purves

Mr. Shafer

Mr. Sturdy

Mr. Sutton

Picture this: one of North Lambton's teachers wins ten million dollars in the lottery. Later, the same teacher is seen passing out twenty dollar bills to students. The question: Who is this charitable soul? You can bet money that it is one of these fine gentlemen, for people with large handwriting are generous. Another similarity between all the handwriting samples of these teachers is the widely spaced letters and words. This indicates a strong personality: confident and courageous. No wimps here!

Pushovers

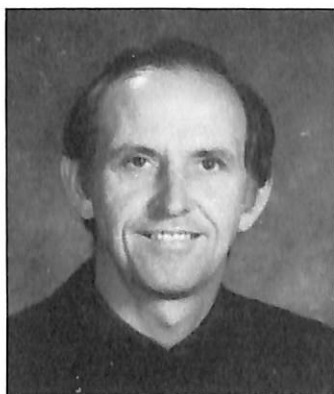

Mr. Armitage

Mr. Jackson

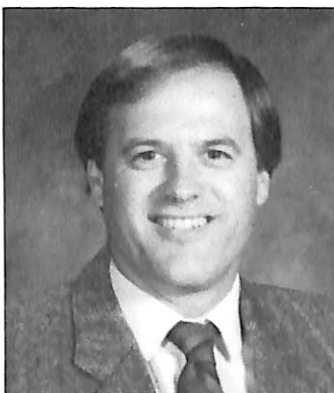

Mr. McNulty

Mr. Proctor

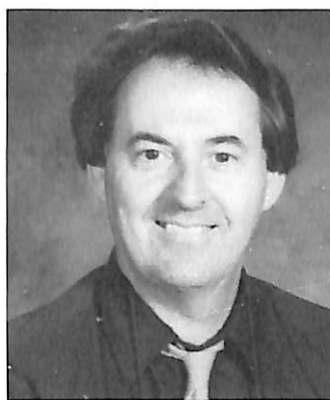

It's very difficult to state nicely that someone is a pushover. What do you say about them? They would probably do anything that was asked of them, even if they didn't want to, so in that sense, these people would be good friends. Through handwriting analysis, we found that an excessive forward slant to the "I" is a key point in a pushover's signature.

Mr. Robinson

Pushover

Brains

Mr. Hunt

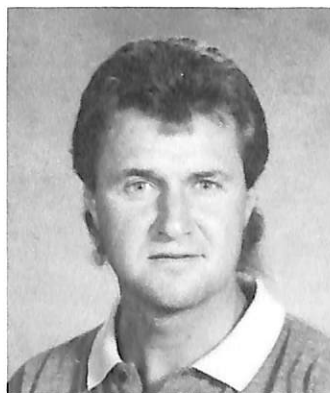

Mrs. Lowe

Miss McDonald

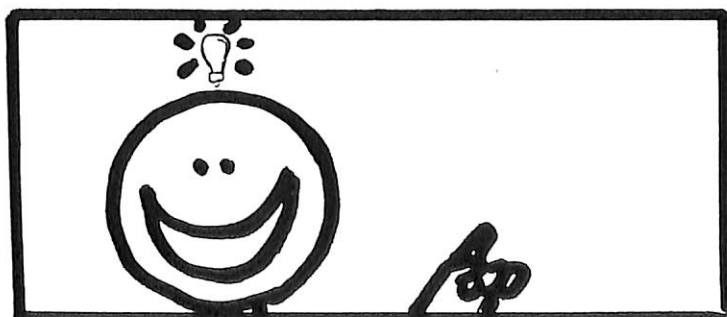

Mr. Peterson

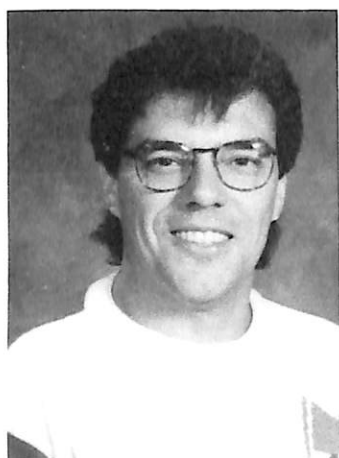

Mr. Richardson

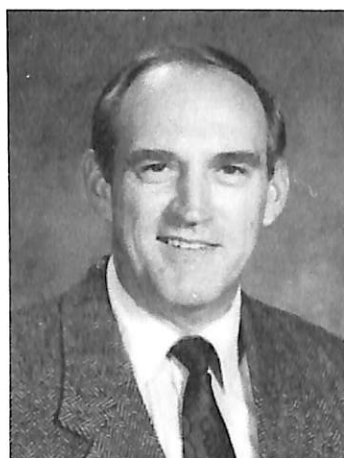

How do you get the Caramilk in a Caramilk bar? Puzzling, isn't it? For years this question has stumped great thinkers from all over the world. There might just be a few people at NLSS who can answer this question. The common thing between these teachers is intelligence. A difference in their style of "G's" points to a lot of brains.

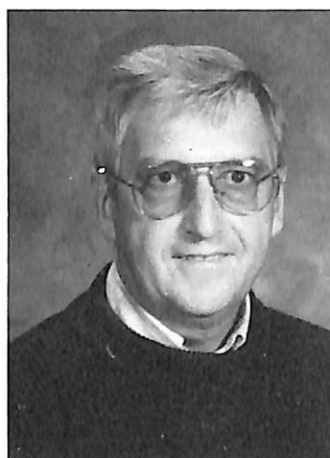

Team Players

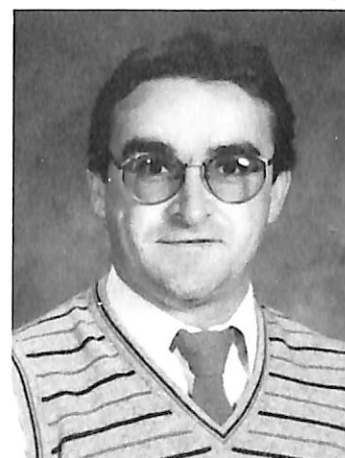

Mr. Furtney

Mr. Giroux

Mr. Kaempf

Mr. Lynch

There are two types of people in this world. Some people remain forever on the sidelines, letting other people get involved, wallflowers who stick to themselves. In the other corner is a group of people playing a whole other ballgame. People who's handwriting has a forward slant love getting into the action. They are real team players.

Mrs. Morrison

Mrs. Murray

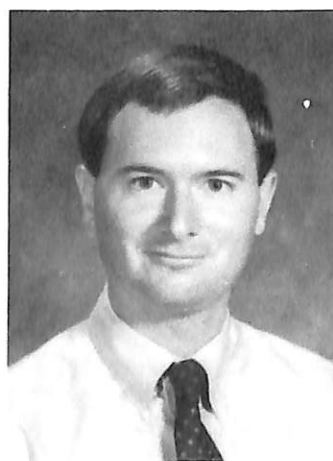

Mrs. Preszator

Eccentrics

If you ever had a teacher whom you either:

a) found interesting, or
b) could not get along with under any circumstances, chances are this teacher writes with a left slant. Individuals who write, slanting their letters in the opposite direction, are said to have a "totally different set of characteristics". If opposites attract, then these teachers probably don't have a hard time making friends. (Although they may be trying to hide from their emotions.) However, these teachers could also be extremities, in which case, they are just too odd to be understood. (That's a safe bet to say!) Ha! Ha!?

Mr. Moergeli

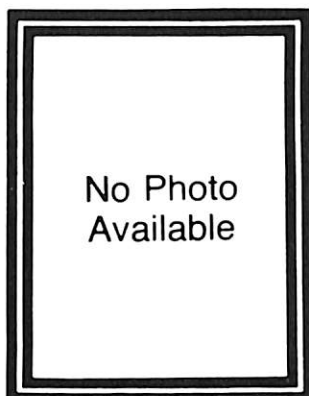

Mrs. Murray

Leaders

Mrs. Beastall

Mrs. Hawkins

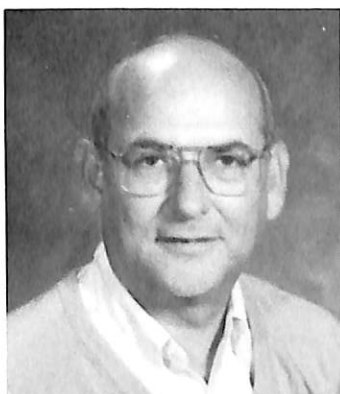

Mrs. Johnson

Miss Leckie

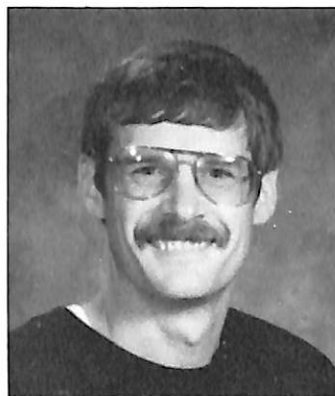

So you are stuck smack dab in the middle of the Amazon and you have no idea how to find your way home. No one wants to take charge. What do you do? Why it is obvious, you need one of these teachers. None of these teachers are easily swayed. As seen in their upright "I's", they are born leaders.

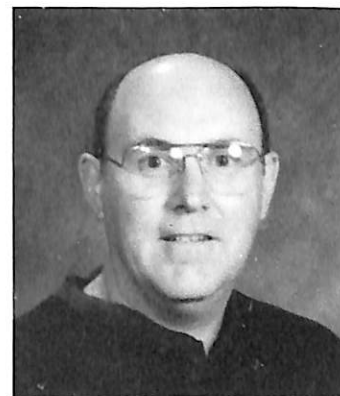

Mr. Warren

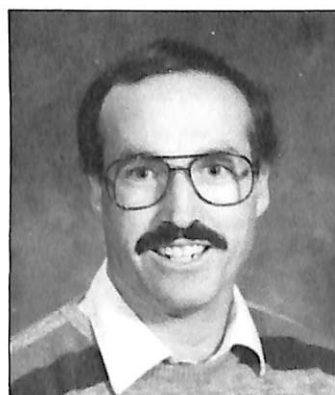

Savers

Mr. Hoornweg

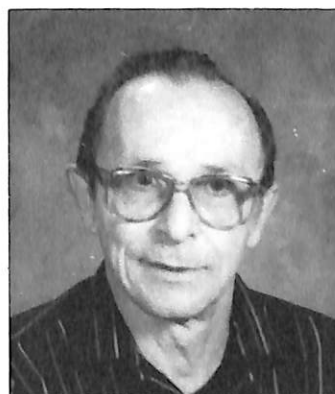

Mr. Janes

Mr. Milliquet

Mr. Muir

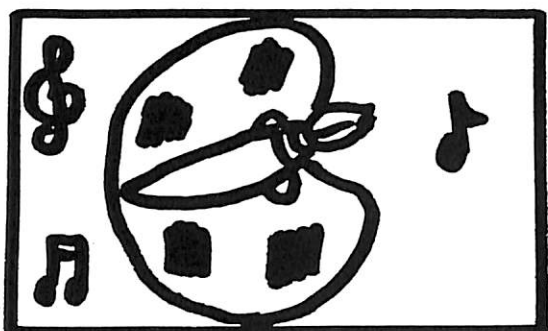

Mr. O'Donnell

Have you ever had a teacher who's handwriting was so small you needed a magnifying glass to read it? Here is encouraging news: teachers do not write small just to make us work harder, it just happens to be part of their personality. People who write small do so because they are trying to conserve space; they are savers, not squanderers. These individuals are thoughtful, very dependable, but are also people who are afraid to take risks. Small writing can be a sign of brilliance. I repeat, it can be, but not necessarily in every case (ie. these ones!) Joking! (I think!)

The Artsy Type

The next Picasso or Mozart just may be a teacher here at North Lambton. Just because they are teachers, does not limit them from being creative people. (People? Hard to believe, eh?) Just think though, maybe one of these teachers missed their true calling, perhaps they are wasting their true talents by teaching. Then again, it is slightly possible that the yearbook club does not know what it is talking about. Not!

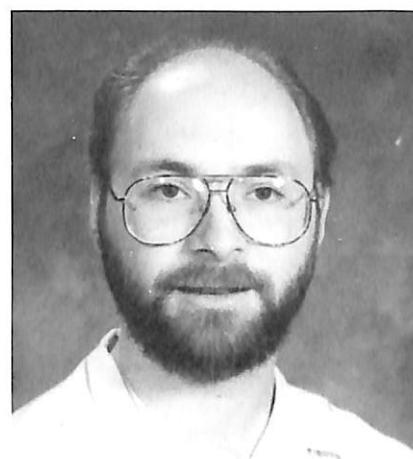

Sensitive

Not everyone is a chick or hunk magnet. It is not because they are unattractive, unintelligent, or socially revolting. Not even close. Some people are just a little too delicate and too easily hurt to involve themselves in close relationships. Well don't worry teachers, we have confidence in you, go for it!

Mr. Arthur

Mr. Dumais

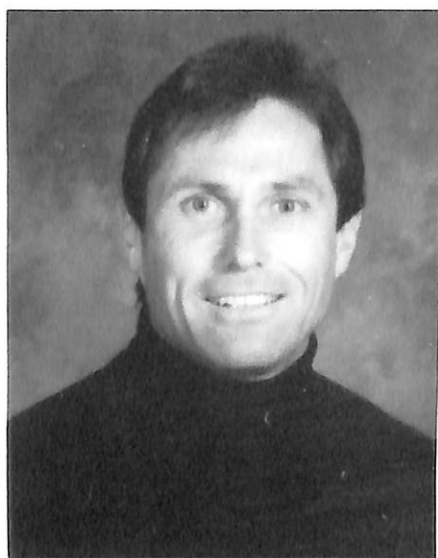

Mrs. Goldhawk

Miss McIntyre

Mr. Moloy

Mrs. Oppen

Mrs. Peterson

Mr. Kalia

It is difficult to analyze a person's handwriting as it is, but especially when it is a different language. You don't have anything to compare it to. However, drawing on vast knowledge about Mr. Kalia, we know he's a great guy, so therefore we don't need to pick apart his writing.

Our first thought about the teachers who submitted a PRINTED copy and signature was that they couldn't follow instructions very well. It was the handwriting aspect we were hoping to analyze, however something unique was found out - some people's writing is printing! Huh?

The Illiterates

The Illiterates

adj. 1. unable to read or write.
2. not cultured: He writes in a very illiterate way.

n. 1. a person unable to read or write.

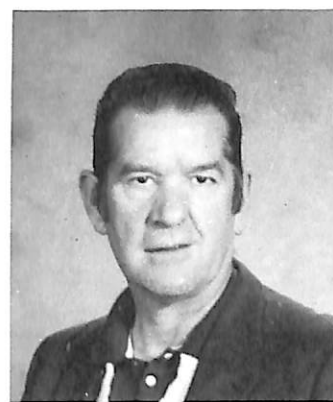

2. a person who lacks culture: a boonish illiterate (Latin illiteratus)

syn. adj. 1. SEE IGNORANT 2. UNPOLISHED, UNLEARNED.

We have no other alternative than to think that some of our teachers are illiterate since we didn't receive their handwriting. Whether it was reading the instructions that stumped them, or that they were just too darn busy to help out the yearbook, we'll never know. Whatever the case, no handwriting copy was obtained from these people, So we'll have to just settle for their wonderful mugs.

Mr. Dougan

Mr. Harrington

Printers

Mrs. Dawkins

Mr. Jacklin

Mrs. Walker

2nd Semester Teachers

These are the great teachers we all know and love who, for one reason or another, felt it beneath them to show up

TAKE A CHANCE

Take advantage of all that's out there
The world's an amazing place
It's waiting for you and all you must do
Is get out and get in the race

There are friends that you haven't met yet
In lands across the sea
It can be hard at first, but that part's the worst
Once you've done it you'll feel wild and free

The universe is your playground
Nothing is holding you back
But fear of unknowns and being alone
Take a chance don't stay safe with the pack

Take charge, live life to the fullest
This is the only life you've got
There are wonders to see beyond your wildest dreams
So don't sit in Forest and rot

You might think it's a little too risky
To go somewhere all on your own
But don't forget, there's no need to fret
If you must you can always come home

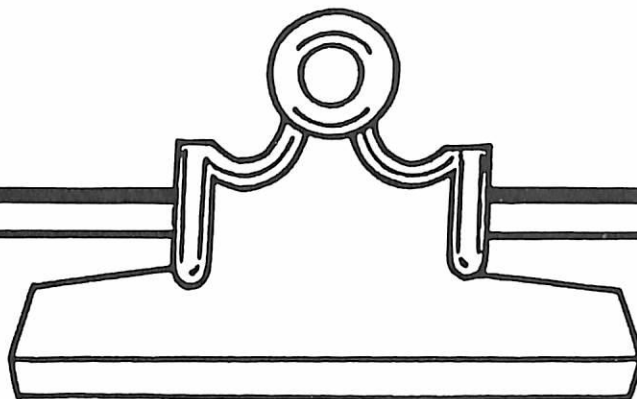

Leana McIntyre

Ahh! another poem's here!
The thought of it instills some fear
I've racked my brains for any theme
That will follow in my rhyming scheme
Structure, form, rhyme and verse
At my best, the very worst
But hey, if I'm not a poet
Is this a poem and I didn't know it?
What kind of stupid rhyme is this?
Is it a hit or is it a miss?
The kind of mark I'd like's a 'A'
But that will come some other day
Right now I have to find a rhyme
That will be remembered till the end of time
Definitely this will not be it
But all the words seem to rhyme & fit
An ode to poetry is what this is
I'd rather write a math pop quiz
Oh well my poem should soon be done
I guess I did have a little Fun!

What the Centennial of NLSS Means to ME

This year, North Lambton Secondary School is celebrating its one hundred year anniversary! This centennial marks a time to appreciate the achievements and experiences which North Lambton Secondary School has brought to many young lives. Now is a special time to celebrate the opportunities that have been offered to the student body, a time to reminisce and a time to look ahead for those graduates who will be venturing out into the world.

From the very first day entering these doors of North Lambton Secondary School, each and every student has been granted equal opportunity to achieve success, beginning one hundred years ago until this day. This is what N.L.S.S. extends to us: a chance to grow closer to our goals and dreams. We, as students, have the privilege to make the most of our lives through education. Our high school years give us the opportunity of sharing friendships with teachers and classmates, sharing times of frustrations and revelations and with all our accomplishments, the rewards of self esteem. It is these years that I feel are the best and will shape our whole future. Our high school gives every student a chance to discover their own personal goals and the choice of achieving success or failure. The teachers here have made every effort to help the students succeed and earn a diploma to build their future. When our years as students at North Lambton Secondary School come to an end, we will exit these same doors and be prepared to begin our adult life.

My experience as a student at N.L.S.S. has been an incredible one. There are many special people I have befriended here and many favourite teachers that I admire immensely. From these school years, here, I have learned that it takes persistence and dedication to succeed. When we, as students, graduate and move on in our separate ways, we will always hold with us the memories of the jitters as freshmen, the first prom, commencements, graduation ceremonies and all the adventures that happened along the way.

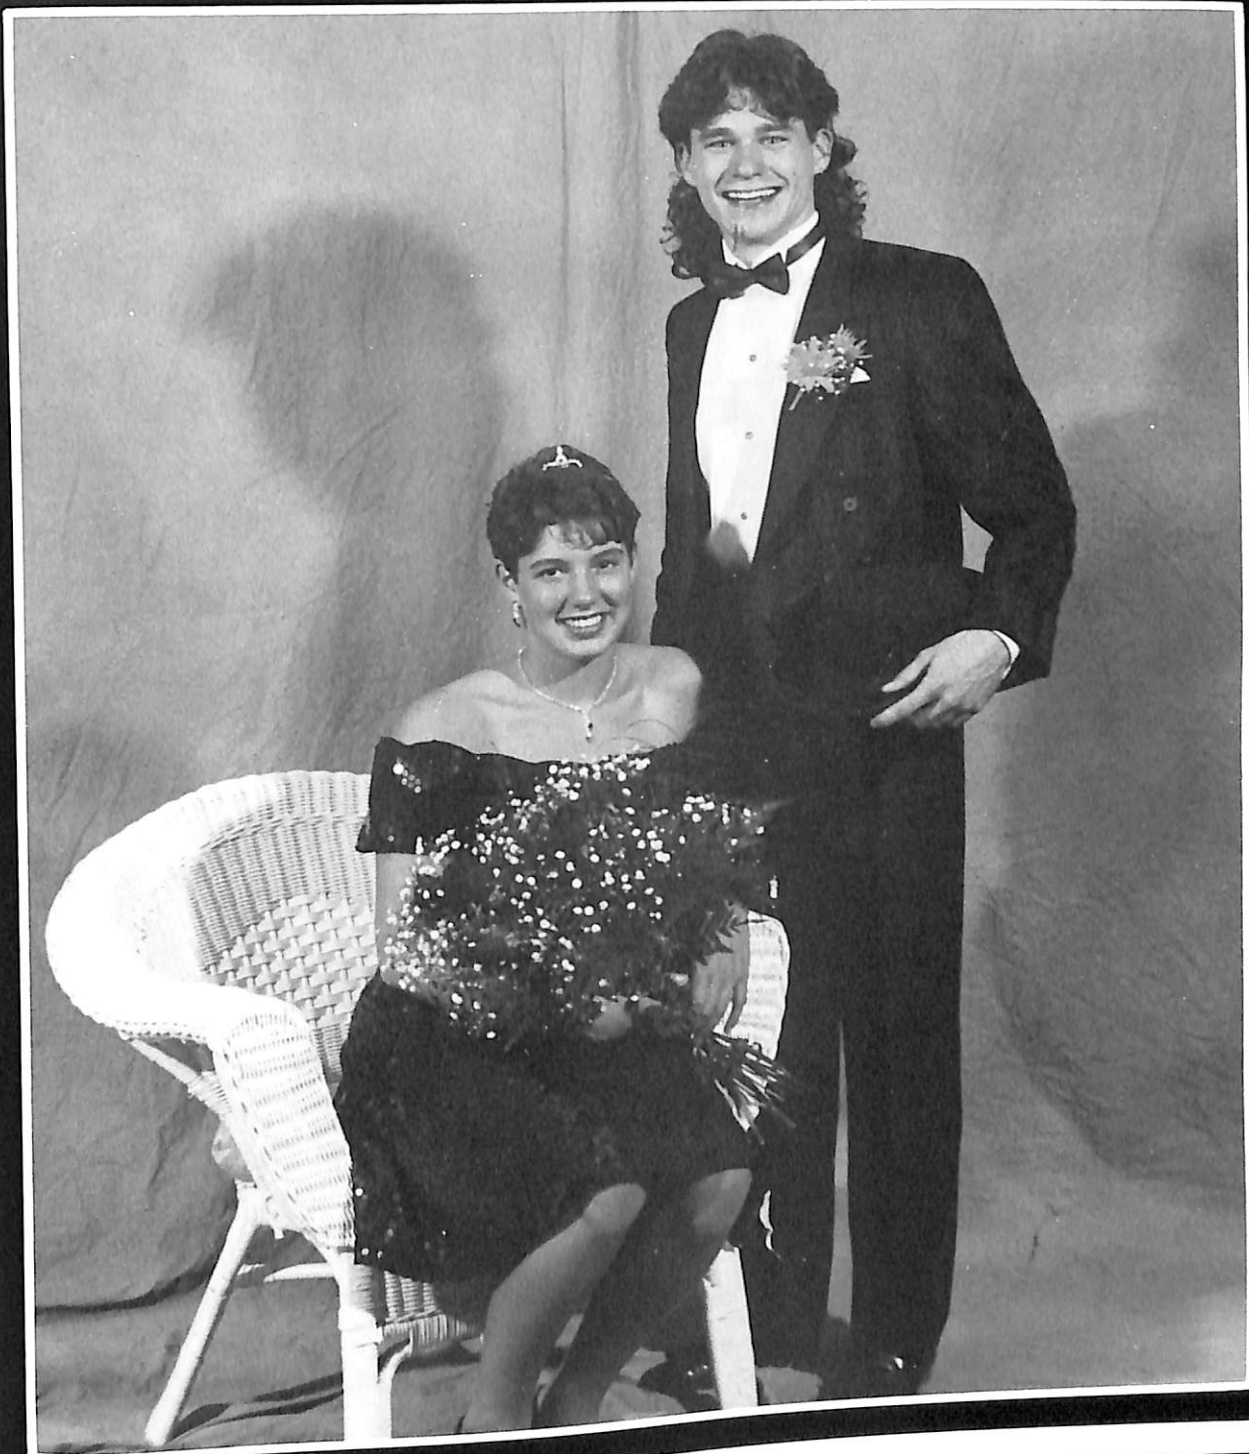

Many of us have parents who have graduated from North Lambton. Perhaps one day, we will have a son or daughter who will have the opportunity to attend this school. My aunt, Connie Harrower, was a student here and in 1966, a scholarship fund was established in her memory as an expression of the high esteem in which she was held by all at this school. She contributed a very sincere effort to her academic achievement and won the proficiency awards for highest standing in each of Grade 9, 10, 11, and 12. In her final year of Grade 13, she lost her life at the age of 18. It was her persistence and never-ending strive for success that earned her this memorial. In this centennial anniversary, when I reminisce of the past, I will personally always remember my aunt and how grateful I am of this school in establishing this scholarship in her name.

This is a very special school and we should all be very proud to celebrate its 100th birthday!

PROM '92

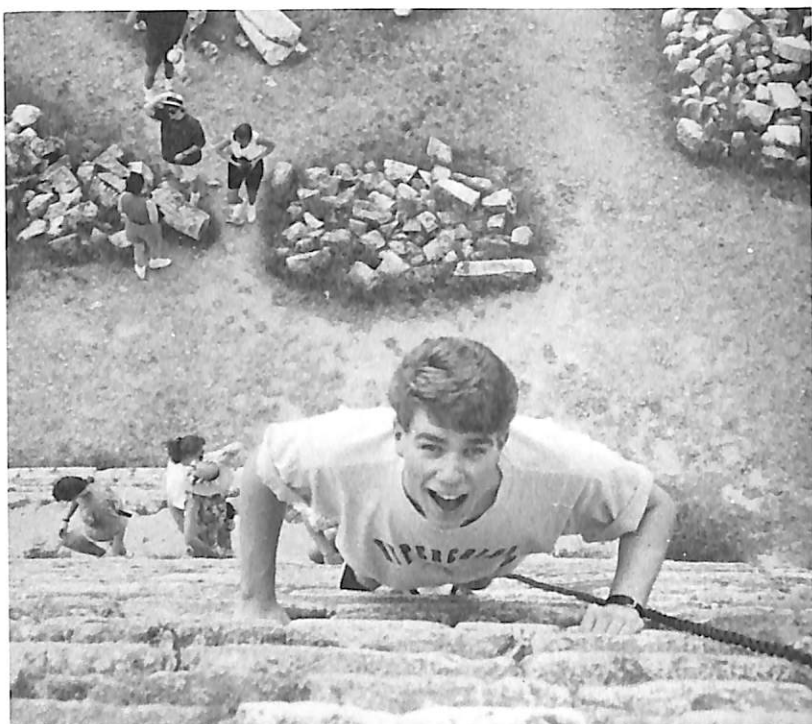

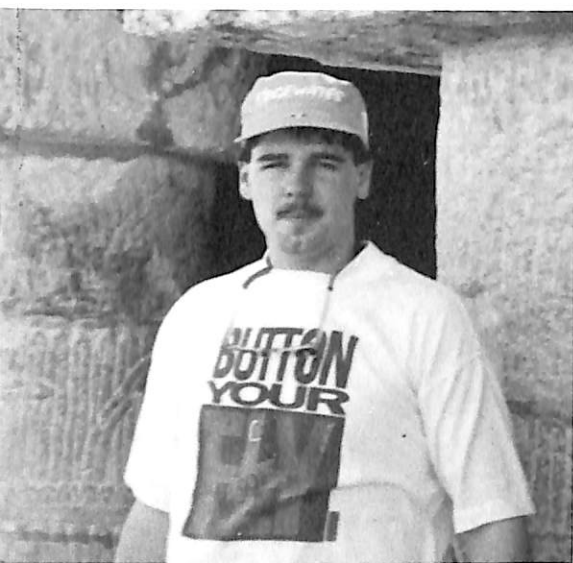

What is more romantic than eating a chicken burger in the cafeteria? Many things I suppose, but the epitome of romance this year occurred on May 23, 1992 as the Class of 1992 hosted the Prom, entitled "Enchantment Beneath the Sea". Hours of hard work and frustration successfully brought about the transformation of a dull cafeteria into an underwater fantasy land, complete with an octopus and treasure chest. Students were unrecognizable as they underwent an amazing metamorphosis from t-shirt and bluejean clad scholars to fair and beauteous creatures of romance and illusion. Overcome with emotion and gratitude, Dan Speck and Colette McAuley, the newest Prom King and Queen to reign at North Lambton, accepted the honour lovingly bestowed to them with heart-felt thanks. Undoubtedly, the Prom of '92 was a crowning success.

MYSTERIES IN MEXICO

On the dark and frigid morning of March 14, 1992, when the mentally stable were asleep, cars mysteriously began to appear around North Lambton. The chosen twelve gathered together, hopped into their get-away vehicle and started on the GREAT ADVENTURE. Unknowingly, the chosen twelve were embarking on a trip full of mystery, intrigue, and adventure. How could twelve people ride a freezing bus for over an hour without realizing a window was open? How come we didn't get to see Terminal Three at the Toronto Airport? As we arrived in Cancun, new and even more puzzling questions arose. How many pesos were there in one dollar? How could the Mayans build such amazing structures over one thousand years ago? Was it possible to die from consuming too much Coca-Cola? What was that thing on my plate? How is it that Annette had a tan even before we left for Mexico? (Interesting, very interesting!) How is it that Jeff could carry that huge sombrero everywhere he went? (The boy had guts!) Is it just me, or did Brenda have an awesome time? (We all know what southern country Brenda will be visiting again next year!) Where has Lorrie gotten herself now? (Lost, or slightly misplaced?) Is it just me, or was there a striking resemblance between Allen and the Mayan Rain God? (?) Is it against the law for Tanya to transport that much silver across the border? (Tanya, no more silver! Repeat it after me, Do you understand?) How is it that Shawn could fall asleep so easily? (Tranquilizer?) How is it that Mr. Brown danced with death with a firey cockroach and lived to tell the tale? (No comment!) Did we have an amazing time? What do you think?

Oh, Mr. Janitor, you missed a spot! Just kidding! If there's a group of dedicated men & women who can keep our halls (and classrooms) beautiful & spotless it's these people. Show me a cleaner school & I'll show you . . . Hmmm, what will I show you? Well, even though we can't think of anything to show, our school's still the neatest & the cleanest. Besides we don't have to prove anything to you, you can tell for yourselves. Our custodians are always, always diligently doing their job.

DEATH, BE NOT PROUD

Death, be not proud, though some have called thee
Mighty and dreadful, for thou art not so:
For those, who thou think'st thou dost overthrow.
Die not, poor Death; nor yet canst thou kill me.
From rest and sleep, which but thy picture be,
Much pleasure, then from thee much more must flow;
And soonest our best men with thee do go,
Rest of their bones and souls' delivery.
Thou'rt slave to fate, chance, kings, and desperate men,
And dost with poison, war, and sickness dwell;
And poppy or charms can make us sleep as well
And better than thy stroke; why swell'st thou then?
One short sleep past, we wake eternally,
And Death shall be no more: Death, thou shalt die!

THE PHYSICS OLYMPICS

May 13, 1992 was a special day for North Lambton as the school hosted the Physics Olympics: an activity which involved many local high schools. North Lambton's two teams were really impressive in competition and placed fourth and sixth out of a field of fifteen teams. Congratulations on a job well done!

GOOD-BYE, AUF WIDERSEHEN, ADIEU, CIAO

Retirement -

"Dismiss the old horse in good time. Lest he fail in the lists and the spectators laugh."

Horace

MR. STURDY

We're so sorry to see

A man as great as he

Retire this year

We'll all shed a tear

As we all say adieu

To a man we all knew

To a man who got wordy

To our historian - Peter Sturdy!

(Who? ____ Is that right? Really! ____)

P.S. We liked the Doritos

"So, lively brisk old fellow, don't let age get you down. White hairs or not,
you can still be a lover."

Goethe

MR. ARMITAGE

There once was a man named Ernie
(And no, his best friend wasn't Bert & no he doesn't live on Sesame Street!)

Ahem . . .

There once was a man named Ernie

Who began his retirement journey

He'll probably go fishing

But we know he'll be wishing . . .

Nah, he's probably glad he's fishing!

(Well, excuse us . . . it's hard to rhyme with Ernie)

MR. JACKLIN

Ode to the Auto-man:

Roy, Roy

What a man

He can fix your car

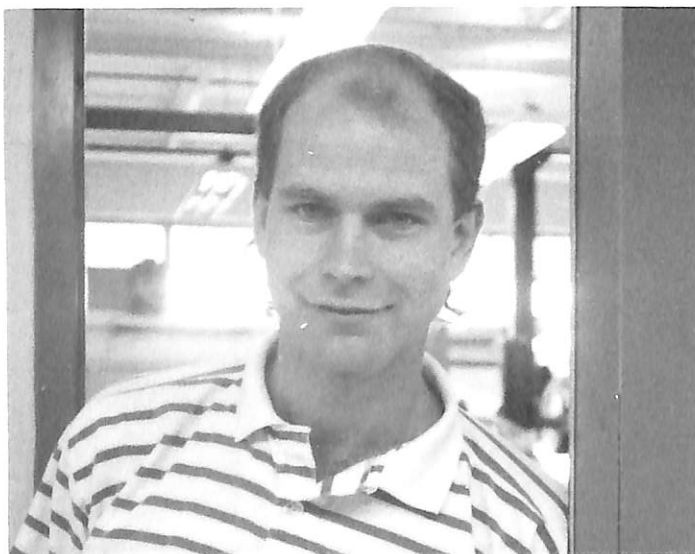

Like no one can

Though his hair is receding

He is quite a guy

And we're sad that he's leaving

For L.C.C.V.I.

MRS. WALKER

We know that the environment is very important to Mrs. Walker, so, instead of a poem, we wrote down a couple of quotes which we felt were appropriate.

"HURT NOT THE EARTH, NEITHER THE SEA, NOR THE TREES."

Revelation 7:3

"THE MOST IMPORTANT THING ABOUT SPACESHIP EARTH - AN INSTRUCTION BOOK DIDN'T COME WITH IT." Buckminster Fuller
Have fun with the rest of your life!

MR. KAEMPF

Mr. Kaempf

MRS. CECI-LAWS

We decided to write something short & sweet about Mrs. Ceci-Laws (because it reminded us of her - short and sweet):

BYE!!

An interview with KIKBAK . . .

Dani Burns, Mary Greinar, Dane Richardson, Mike Ross, Dan Speck

KIKBAK, an unique name, isn't it? Almost seems somewhat . . .

Oriental? Alas, don't ask them where the name comes from. No great bands are ever asked that question! Next? What songs does KIKBAK perform? Namely older stuff, classic rock, 60's stuff, "y'know, Zeppelin . . .". They try to mix it up. (Although, Dane's influence is Hall n' Oats. "We have a certain elemental chemistry . . .") With that comment there is a groan heard by other band members. Next?

Great looking AND musically inclined, all members of KIKBAK write music in addition to performing. (Nope, no Milli Vanilli here!) To get noticed, they are making and sending out a demo tape to various artists and places. You may also have noticed KIKBAK posters around the school. The posters, the yearbook interview, some wonderful photography (done by a wonderful photographer) and the plans for some summertime bar concerts will undoubtedly get them their deserved recognition.

After the neat-o interview, which was a little later than first scheduled, (Mary Greinar's fault! She's the "un-dedicated" member. Ha! Ha!), there was some controversy over how to get their pictures taken. (To point at the camera, or not to point at the camera . . . that is the question).

But, all good things must come to an end, (such is life). And so, we draw to a close another yearbook, another interview & another school year. (And in due time, perhaps we'll see KIKBAK on Good Rockin' Tonite). But, as Dane said, "Practising is more important than pictures." So, with that, may we, the Yearbook, wish everyone a happy life. We wish Dan, Dani, Dane, Mary & Mike all the luck in the world, and hey . . . it's summer. Everyone go home, relax and KIKBAK! (You all saw that coming, didn't you?)
